“ We opted for a range of Gerflor flooring because of the quality of product and good colour range, the flooring is hard-wearing and cost effective. ”

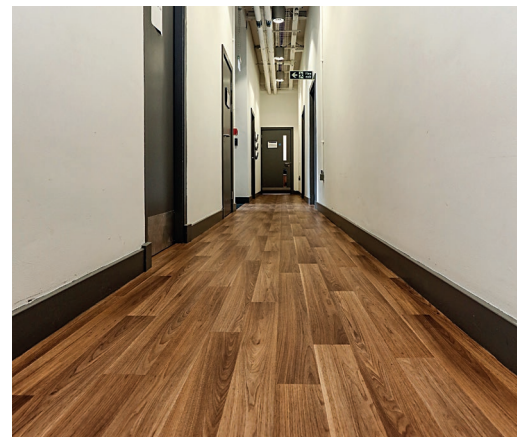

Eric Watson,
Associate at Nimmo and Partners

Founded in 1451, the University of Glasgow is the fourth oldest university in the English-speaking world.

As part of the university's overall facility the library plays a huge role in supporting some 28,000 students and 3,400 research and teaching staff in their thirst for knowledge. When a refurbishment of the library's flooring was needed it turned to international flooring specialist Gerflor to supply solutions that would deliver on performance and design in several areas in the building.

“ Careful preparation of the existing concrete floor was a key factor to ensure that a flat and level finished floor surface was achieved. We were extremely pleased with the final result. ”
